What is a Joint Account?

A joint account is an account in the name of more than one person. If you open a joint account with another person, you will be jointly and individually liable for any money that is owed on the account.

How do we open a Joint Account?

All parties who wish to open a joint account are firstly to be members of Australian Military Bank. Then it is a simple process of completing a "Joint Account Application" form.

Who gets statements?

As you are a member of Australian Military Bank, you will get your own statement. You may choose to have individual accounts which will be listed on your statement along with the joint account. If there is a joint loan, you can choose for one person to get the statement of the loan but savings accounts statements are always sent to everyone on the joint account.

How can we make our joint account more secure?

You will be asked how you wish to be able to withdraw funds from the account. For example, you may wish to limit withdrawing funds unless all signatories to the account sign a withdrawal slip. On the other hand, you may wish to be able to withdraw funds with only one signature. (And you should note that if you would like card access, the authority on the account must be "one to sign".) You will be required to give us written instructions about how you wish to be able to withdraw funds from the joint account. You will be able to vary those instructions at any time. All parties to an account must sign an authority to vary the authorisations on an account.

Can we get a joint loan?

Yes. All parties on the joint account are to complete and sign the loan application and the loan contracts. Remember that all parties are jointly and individually liable for the loan until it is paid out in full.

What happens if i go on deployment and can't sign documents?

If only one person is required to sign on the account, then in most cases, one signature will suffice. However, if you wish to enter into a loan contract, then a registered Power of Attorney is required. Please seek your own legal advice on this.

Whose TFN will be applied to the account?

The tax file number of all parties needs to be recorded, to prevent General Withholding Tax from being debited from the joint account.

How can we get more information?

It is important that everyone who wants a joint account reads Australian Military Bank's Terms and Conditions. Our branch staff will be happy to answer any questions you may have or ring our Member Contact Centre on 1300 13 23 28.
